Our darling Baboo,

Auntie and I with all loving thoughts and earnest prayers wish you a very happy 21st Birthday. We are thankful to God that in the midst of pain and sorrow we are given to see you enter manhood. We do not understand why we have been made to go through great pain and anguish in the loss of dear papa, but that's how life goes on. In the midst of darkness God sends His light to guide us along & while we feel hopeless and lost He comes nearest to us to comfort us and to give us courage to go forward following the courageous and sacrificial footsteps of those whom we love.

Now, from this day you are entering a new ~~page~~ and grand period of your life full of promise and tremendous responsibilities. You must from now on take time to plan out your life. There is not a moment to be lost. With God's help you can now go forward and achieve great things. Your first obligation is to finish your course without any more set back, and then to look after the education and welfare of all those who now look up to you.

Hereafter auntie and I cannot treat you as a youngster, we must hand over to your own hands full responsibility for your future. In spite of past failures, there is a glorious future before you. As an Electrical Engineer you will be entering a field full of promise, but you cannot afford to miss a single year of study. In the past if auntie and I seemed to be very exacting it was because we still considered you the youngster we brought with us 12 years ago and the promise we gave papa that we will see that you are made a successful boy. Now you have passed the stage of dependence on us and we have complete faith in you that hereafter you will go forward from success to success. You have been more than a son to us and we will keep on loving you and praying for you.
